SUSTAINABILITY PROJECTS ON FOUR CAMPUSES— ARIZONA STATE, GRAND VALLEY STATE, HARVARD, AND PIMA COMMUNITY COLLEGE—HIGHLIGHT FOURTH ANNUAL SUSTAINABILITY WEBCAST HOSTED BY THE SOCIETY FOR COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY PLANNING

October 3, 2006, Ann Arbor, Michigan—How are Arizona State University, Grand Valley State University, Harvard University, and Pima Community College tackling environmental sustainability on their campuses? Tune in to an October 25, 2006, two-hour webcast to learn how these institutions are weaving sustainability into their daily campus operations and classrooms.

The webcast, titled “Where Is Your Campus On the Continuum of Integrated Sustainability Planning,” will be broadcast from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. EST by the Society for College and University Planning (SCUP), an international society of senior higher education professionals. The program will feature a panel of administrators, faculty, and students reporting on campus-based sustainability projects and their strategies for incorporating sustainability into daily campus life.

The webcast is open to the public. The cost is $265 for SCUP members and $325 for all others. For more information, visit www.scup.org/csd/4/.

SCUP’s fourth annual Campus Sustainability Day webcast is sponsored by Baltix Sustainable Furniture, Gilbane Higher Education, Itron, and University Business magazine.

SCUP published a white paper, titled “We Rise to Play a Greater Part,” outlining the need for higher education to take a lead in environmental sustainability. The paper can be downloaded at no charge at www.scup.org/csd/3/whitepaper.html.

Since 1999, SCUP has focused resources to address sustainability on college campuses, including forming a Lyris-based email discussion list (scup-sustainability@umich.edu) and publishing a special issue of the society’s journal, Planning for Higher Education on sustainability.

Since 1966, SCUP has provided its members with the knowledge and resources to achieve institutional goals. Visit www.scup.org.
